BABBITT COMPANY PLUGS MATTAPOISETT CENTENNIAL IN TREASURE HUNT CONTEST

Considerable talk and interest has been stirred up in the town by the new Bowax Treasure Hunt Contest sponsored by the Babbitt Chemical Company of New Bedford, Mass. In introducing their new product to the citizens of Mattapoisett and vicinity the Babbitt Co. has used a novel and interesting idea which ties in very closely with our celebration to come later in the summer. Clues of the contest which change daily are all of Historical Background in Mattapoisett. When correctly interpreted they lead the treasure hunter to some point of interest which has played a role in Mattapoisett's past, and there he or she will find the treasure which will bring a very attractive prize to the lucky winner. This is a very imaginative and worthwhile presentation. On the tryout which took place in Marion rivalry was very strong and even now some Marion residents are planning to invade the town of Mattapoisett to see if they are better versed on our history than we are. It will be interesting to see if the practice that they have had will lead them to the treasure first.

THE CHANGING SHORE LINE

Recently two familiar landmarks have disappeared from the Mattapoisett scene. The Stackpole residence which was so long a familiar point of interest has given way to a new beach. Battered by many storms the old house stood up gallantly to testify to the skill of its builders, but the raging water which in the hurricanes actually broke over the roof of the three-story structure completely gutted the building. The old stone foundation which was originally a blacksmith shop for the whaling ships which were constructed here proved a mighty base but even the massive stones of this foundation were tossed about as the front was torn out by the sea. Now the property enters a new phase of usefulness as a new beach and even the foundation itself is serving a new purpose as a breakwater to gather the sand. The old place will live on for many years in the memories of townspeople even as it stood for so many years as a town landmark.

At Ship Street the old barn which was a part of the estate of the late Mrs. Curtis has also been taken down. The old homes directly in back of the structure, which were built by shipbuilders who operated there, now enjoy a whole new view of the harbor. The old barn like the Stackpole home has stood so long that it seems very odd to see the water from Shipyard Lane.

PRIVATE INITIATIVE AND BUSINESS BUILDS YACHT BASIN IN MARION

It is refreshing in this day and age when government and public funds are expected to take over in every large undertaking to find a private business with the imagination and the courage to tackle a big job entirely on its own which will be of great benefit to itself and the entire town. These pictures show the dredging operation at Burr Boat Yard of Marion as they construct a yacht basin in Marion harbor. The dredger pipe is shown filling mash swampland which was of no value before and which will become a larger parking lot so that people owning boats can drive right to the deck, almost. The dike was constructed around the wasteland and the dredger is pumping the yacht basin waste into this dike to form the fill for the parking lot area. This basin when completed will form an enclosed protection for yachts both large and small with docking facilities adjacent to the Burr Yard.

Feb. 24th. Tuesday the wind is N. and N. by W. with some rains and cloudy. We move slowly along on our solitary way with no object for the eye to rest on day after day but a desert of waters. The mind will oft times wander like a hoary Pilgrim to the vales of my youth and the shrines of my household gods.

We soon shall leave the torrid zone
And plough the northern main
And listen to the wailing moan
Of storms of sleet and rain.

Feb. 25th. Wednesday the wind is N. and moderate with a long swell from N.E. We cooper and stow down our sperm oil and serve the lanyards of the bobstays and set them up.

Feb. 26th. Thursday the wind is East. We repair the topsail sheets, chain fluke & C. Our blacksmiths are first rate workmen.

Feb. 27th. Friday the wind is N. and N.E. by N. We repair the withe on the flying jib boom and do some other little jobs.

Feb. 28th. Saturday the wind is unsteady as usual veering back and forth - first the East then N.E. We carry studding sails all day.

ularly to the height of 18,000 feet above the level of the sea. About half way up is a volcano the crater of which is 9 or 10 miles in circuit with a lake of molten lava always boiling and not a verry inapt figure of the infernal regions. It sometime boils over and sends a river of red hot fire 1 or 2 miles broad and 20 miles long through the country into the sea. We passed an American mission station today. The missionary's name is Paris. The native villages seem the abode of Peace. We get up our cables and prepare our ground tackle this afternoon.

This night is is nearly calm with light airs off the land. The light of the volcano is plainly seen shining on the clouds that gather round the mountain.
